ABOUT

HiSensitives is a personal growth brand for highly sensitive people and empaths. Our mission is to inform, support and connect highly sensitive people and empaths who want to live a happier life through personal growth. On our blog, which was established in November 2018, we share the most relevant personal growth articles, methods and tools to help our target audience live their happiest and most fulfilled life. In our Facebook group we host regular challenges related to personal growth and multiple book clubs a year. On our Instagram page, we connect with our audience by sharing personal growth content and stories. Our Pinterest account serves as a medium to spread our word into the world. Overall, we aim to inspire our audience on a daily basis with the newest resources on the topic personal growth.
